Please note that your participation in UCSD Health Sciences International Visiting Clinical Fellowship does not make you eligible to practice medicine. These are not ACGME-accredited training positions.*

Overview

- Each UC San Diego Health Sciences International Visiting Clinical Fellow participates in individually designed course of study tailored to their personal professional development goals. Visiting Fellows participate in clinical teaching and training experiences, experience a wide range of relevant didactic and teaching sessions within their specialty, and conduct research. Each visiting fellow works directly with an experienced UC San Diego faculty mentor who guides the training. Each mentor is carefully selected to align with the fellow's learning objectives. We offer visiting fellowships in a wide range of disciplines.

Prospective Candidates

- This program is tailored for individuals who are Board-certified and/or Board-eligible scholars outside of the United States (ex., Board-certified by the Saudi Commission). Fellows in this distinguished program are considered "visiting scholars" (J-1 Visa) and, as such, are under direct supervision at all times.

Program Goals

- To provide direct experience in comprehensive and standardized patient care scenarios
- To enhance each scholar's professional communication capabilities
- To provide the opportunity for clinical experience through standardized patients, simulation and relevant clinical teaching environments
- To provide experience in clinical research
- To facilitate the development of relationships with faculty mentors for successful career development

Program Benefits

- Program Certificate
- Direct faculty supervision and teaching
- Didactics for clinical skills and knowledge enhancement
- First-hand experience in a leading academic medical center
